

NEWSLETTER – JULY 2008

Hello DeltaCompetition participant,

In our third newsletter to participants we wish to let you know how things are progressing with entry of papers and the Symposium later this year, which will host the DeltaCompetition awards ceremony. We hope you are well, and that the preparations for your paper are going as planned.

Papers

The competition deadline of the 1st August is fast approaching and we have already received our first paper submission. We hope that this will be followed by many interesting and innovative papers. The DeltaCompetition organisation team will be meeting in the second week of August to screen papers, where soon afterwards, entrants will receive a letter from the team requesting any amendments / validation issues before the package of entries are passed to the Jury Panel for review.

Symposium: Adapting the Deltas of the World to Climate Change - Inspiration from the Next Generation

We are proud to let you know that in addition to other speakers, Cees Veerman (Dutch former Minister of Agriculture), chairman of the DeltaCommission, will be speaking at the Royal Haskoning Symposium about the main future challenges for delta's, created by climate change.

The DeltaCompetition awards ceremony will be held on the 18 November as part of the wider Royal Haskoning Symposium: Adapting the Deltas of the World to Climate Change - Inspiration from the Next Generation. Attending the Symposium will be key members of the company and many of our clients, ranging from company CEO's, industry leaders to government officials. The forum will be a great chance to showcase your winning (or runner-up) ideas and network with these companies.

The Competition nominees (selected by the Jury Panel and announced in October) will be invited to present their paper at the Symposium, with a presentation and poster - so be prepared if you are one of the nominees!

If you already have some ideas that can contribute to or have already made a presentation, please do send this to us! The nominees will be informed in time with all necessary information and support to make all the presentations a success!

Interviews

The interviews that were mentioned in the last newsletter will be held throughout the week beginning 21 July. If you would like to be interviewed, please let us know and we will be in touch!

We look forward to hearing from you, whether it be on progress, questions, or general queries – do get it touch!

Wishing you all much success and with kind regards,

The DeltaCompetition 2008 team
